Political Domination of Business Decried by League President

Political domination of business to the detriment of the latter and a prediction that the west coast is in for one of its greatest home construction eras in 1951, highlighted talks at the annual three-day midyear conference of the California Savings and Loan league which opened Wednesday.

Lyman M. King, Jr., president of the league, made the predic-tion of the great home building rush expected due to the swing of population to the west coast.

HE ALSO charged that politics is dominating business in his opening address Wednesday. King, who is also president of Redlands Federal Savings and Loan Association, went on to say that if the controls recently placed on credit, home building and home lending had been affected last summer instead of waiting until fall, the government would have saved the $16 billion that the administration is now asking for.

IT IS INTERESTING to note that two visitors to Palm Springs last week who are in touch with international and domestic affairs both mentioned that religion would play an important part in meeting the problems that face America and the world today. In his speech at the Desert Inn. John Morliey, noted foreign correspondent, said that the spiritual faith of the Chinese-as well as other of the United Nations-would prevail in the long run over Russian communism. At another meeting the same day, Noel Sargent, noted domestic economist, stated that the churches of this country are one of the key groups for moulding of public opinion. There are many who believe that a revival of moral force is under way and that it is essential to the preservation of our liberties. Dr. Ruth Alexander says "I am here to challenge politico-economic maladjustment as the cause of world unrest, I am here to attribute it primarily to paralysis of religion as the supreme historic force in the government of human relations.

We have been witnessing in recent years the difference between fanaticism and religious faith. Fanatics cling to a falsehood to the point of desperation—then die or give up. The most discouraging aspect of the Civil Defense program in California is the apathy on the part of the public to realize the vital importance of getting busy and organizing properly.

WE NEED SIDEWALKS

Editor, The Desert Sun:-My wife and I have been coming to Palm Springs for several years. Each year we have been hoping that the sidewalk condiwould be improved but little seems to be done in that respect.

We have occasion to walk on Palm Canyon Drive between the Plaza and Ramon Road. Between Arenas Road and Ramon Road there is great need to have side-walks installed where they do not now exist. There is too much traffic to permit walking in the street with safety so it is neces-sary to trudge along in the sand where concrete sidewalks ough to be. This sand is a - - nuis ance and it is a shame that it is permitted to continue. The city should become sidewalk conscious and institute a campaign to quickly place a great deal of sidewalks, not only in the location mentioned but throughout the whole city where the amount of traffic warrants. We are paying more than $100 per week without meals, and we feel we are entitled to have sidewalks to walk on when we want to walk down town. No doubt there are many others who are dissatisfied with trudg-ing through the sand when payprices for accommodation. you can do something about this you will be performing a worthwhile service.

White Sox Batterymen Start Grind

Pitchers, Catchers Turn Out to Start Spring Training

Showing vigorous agility and spirit in the first day workout, the Chicago White Sox arrived in Palm Springs early Tuesday morning and reported for spring batterymen's practice at the Polo Ground before 10 a.m.

More than 30 players, most of them pitchers and catchers, dotted the greensword to show their stuff for the new American league club manager, Paul Richards. There were no holdouts on the squad this year, according to general manager Frank Lane.

THE HOSE put on a vigorous show for the few dozen Villagers who turned out to watch opening workouts. Several lutsy Sox smacked balls over the fence—over 365 yards away.

Primary object of newsmen's and photographers' attention
